CAPT. M. R. ANDERSON late of the 6th U. S. Volunteers, started yesterday for his home in Ohio, going via San Francisco and New York. The Captain belongs to a fighting family being a nephew of Gen. Robert Anderson and of Governor Anderson of Ohio.

DIED.—In Great Salt Lake City, on the 12th of June, 1886, James Galt Brown, aged 79 years.

Born in Stewarton, Ayrshire, Scotland, March 8th, 1788. Known favorably in Glasgow and the west of Scotland for 50 years, as a teacher, master mason, &c., and an honest man; afterwards in Liverpool, as a merchant, and for 15 years here as there. He lived and died in peace.

INDIGNANT.—Yesterday our local met Mr. Long in—we were going to name the place, but it occurred to us that the establishment would be liable to be abated as a nuisance, hence we forbore. Local asked Mr. L. what he thought of our comments on that Church Bull. He replied that he had not taken the trouble to compare our paper with the Deseret News, but supposed we had copied correctly. In regard to our remarks upon the "clipping," he did not thank us nor anybody else for classing him with fanatics, because he never was either a fanatic or a fanatic, but claimed to be a free thinking Latter day Saint, and notwithstanding what his brethren might have seen, fit to do with him he would still be one in principle. When he was a "traveling Elder," he said, he corresponded with several newspapers in Great Britain, and when he did not see proper to sign his name, his incognito was "Free Thinker."

In answer to several interrogatories he was very emphatic in telling Local that he had been a subscriber and reader of our paper from the first issue to the present; he had seen many things in it that were appropriate and truthful, and others that he did not like. He was a polygamist and did not care who knew it. It was true that he had preached and defended plurality of wives both at home and abroad; he was one of the first who publicly advocated the doctrine in England and, if he were to go on another mission, he would not deny it. Local then solicited an article on the subject; Mr. Long declined, and then remarked that the way he defended that part of his religion was by taking care of his wives and babies, and he considered that a better defence of the principle (7) than whipping and abusing them, writing squibs for newspapers, feeding them on carrots, or compelling them to earn their own living by washing and sewing for the "Gentiles."

Mr. Long, we apologize for classing you as a "mission" you will prove yourself what you claim to be by corresponding with Local.

Our Local also met Mr. Ross and informs us that he does not like our classing him among the zealous of Mormon missionaries; he asserts that he always claimed the right of private judgment, as well as the right to examine every doctrine propounded by the authorities of the Church, and likewise to strive to understand for himself the "financial" policy of Church leaders. This is believed, by several of his personal friends, to be the real cause of his expulsion from the Church.

Mr. Ross, we are told, has been a member of the Mormon Church for upwards of twenty-four years, and has held as prominent positions in the Church in Europe as is ever permitted by Brigham's policy, for natives of foreign countries to hold.

A monument in honor of Columbus has been erected at Salamanca, Spain. It is placed on a lofty elevation near the grounds of the University, is the place where doctors of the institution received and listened to his theories concerning the new route to the Indies. The monument is a large pedestal resting on a broad base and arch, and above a beautiful eagle and globe. The height of the whole is one hundred and six feet. It is constructed entirely of granite of a dark and regular color.

Our readers are reminded that the Tribune is a green and beautiful State, and they have not been made such the State are empty.

The little tax of one cent upon each box of matches produced last year throughout the United States about $1,500,000.

In the mining districts of Montana, Australia, water is scarcely less valuable than gold. Whenever water is plentiful the workings succeed, wherever deficient the mines suffer. This is in the surface water. In the deep mines the water has usually to be pumped out.

THE SPEECHES LAST NIGHT.—A fair analysis, says the Washington Chronicle of the 24th ult., of last night's investment of the Johnson Club leaves the following product:

For "my policy"—The President; the State Department; the Navy; the Treasury; the War Department; the Interior; the Law; the Post Office Department.
